

Ideal Location

Ohio's Midwest location is a good choice for manufacturers and distributors needing to move products or people from coast to coast. Muskingum County further builds on Ohio's logistical advantage by offering direct interstate, rail and air access.

Highway Transportation

Interstate-70 runs through the heart of Muskingum County, providing direct access to one of the most important east-west corridors in the nation. Other major interstates are nearby adding to the ease of highway transportation.

Dollar General operates a 1.2 million square foot facility located in the EastPointe Industrial Park, less than three miles north of an I-70 interchange. This enormous facility, with 170 truck docks, supplies products to nearly 1,000 retail stores in seven states.

Multi-Modal Advantages

Several Muskingum County companies enjoy the multi-modal advantages of highways and rail service. Nestle Purina, Greif Brothers Corporation, AK Steel and the New Bakery Company of Ohio, Inc. – a subsidiary of Wendy's International, all utilize trucks and railcars to receive and ship products. Four railroads provide freight service in Muskingum County.

Air Transportation

Air travel is the final piece of Muskingum County's transportation network. Zanesville Municipal Airport's two 5,000-foot runways easily accommodate corporate jets. Charter service is also available. For commercial air service, Port Columbus International Airport is less than an hour west of Zanesville.
